I have created and system that is patent pending that I believe can aid you in your gold king disaster. It is an underwater air curtain that would normally be used in the ocean, but I believe it will work in a river and at the head waters of a reservoir for sure. It creates an underwater air plenum that separates the heavy metals and particulates. I know it can aid you in the reservoir and quite certain, with 3 or 4 systems it can act as a plenum and allow you to in the future to power wash the river with an isolation of material and allow for a dredging and reclaiming of material. if you are interested and would like to see the specs, please call me at Personal Phone/Ex. 6 or email Personal Email/Ex. 6 If you are not interested, please let me know so I do not try to follow up. We could possibly be able to put this together in a 48 hour period. K. I heard about this issue on the TV
